ADMINISTRATION

TODAY there is need for leadership in a higher and better sense than ever before. On one side are people saying that there shall be no change in government, educational institutions, or society; on the other, are people who hold to the motto that "All that is, is wrong." It would be folly to invest either group with leadership. No broad-minded young man or woman of education can afford to subscribe wholly to either theory—that is, to the theory that all is wrong, or that all is right with the world.

Much in our government is of fundamental importance and should not be abandoned. But we need not fear to make needed changes. We are living in an age when an honest man or woman need fear less than ever before to change in point of view or belief. The Supreme Court of the United States has set a splendid example for us. Here is a tribunal, the highest in the land—none more powerful in the world—yet it is unafraid to reverse its own decisions made under conditions which do not exist today.

So we need not be afraid to change our minds. Benjamin Franklin emphasized this point when he said that a wise man changes his mind often, but a fool never. The same holds for the Bourbon kings who are said to have forgotten nothing and learned nothing.

Just where does the college trained man or woman stand today? In a highly important place, be assured. He is being trained for leadership, but the prerequisite of leadership now, as never before, is knowledge. To get knowledge the student must learn, and learn thoroughly. In the broader, bigger game of life one learns effectively only by keeping one's mind open and coming to conclusions slowly. At a time when the populace of every land is beset by unrest, we need sanity; and sanity prompts to examine carefully every new panacea for unrest that is proposed, and to re-examine the old. When we have done this we may, like the Supreme Court of the United States, perceive the wisdom in reversing some of our decisions.

Graduates of the State College are taking important places in the industrial life and in the leadership of the Northwest. In increasing measure they will be called upon to assume such responsibility. Every man or woman leaving the State College should be not only vocationally efficient, but willing and eager to learn more, ever ready to grapple with new economic and social problems.

This is the college man's opportunity; and the college woman's, too. But there is no opportunity without responsibility, and there is no real leadership that is not definitely founded on such responsibility.

Governmental progress, industrial justice and contentment, and personal reward: all these and more are largely dependent upon the leadership and responsibility assumed today by college men and women.

COLLEGE OF SCIENCE & ARTS

Acting Dean Todd

THIS College includes the Departments of Botany, Chemistry and Chemical Engineering, Economic Science and History, English, Foreign Languages, Geology, and Zoology. Each of these departments offers four-year courses, training specialists in the various fields. A large part of the work, however, is in courses required by other departments or chosen for culture and general education.

In addition to the above lines of work the College has a General Course for students wishing to select combinations of subjects from more than one department. Curricula have been arranged also in preparation for the study of Medicine, Dentistry and Nursing. Cooperation of leading hospitals has been obtained in presenting a combined college and training course in nursing.

The CHINOOK of '21

CHEMISTRY

THE Department of Chemistry offers degrees in Chemistry and Chemical Engineering. The impetus given to the science of chemistry during the war is now being felt by the colleges and universities of the United States in a greatly increased interest and enrollment. The demand for qualified chemists and chemical engineers is very great, especially in industrial and research laboratories, and the department has not enough graduates to fill positions that are now open.

This department is taking care of the increased enrollment in all courses and maintaining its high standards of work. Graduates are now scattered over many parts of the country and all are successful in their particular field.

GEOLOGY

IN the scientific world of today there is a great cry going out for the trained geologist. In the several different branches of the geological service there are many vacancies. On the U. S. Geological Survey during the last two years there has been a "turn over" of about seventeen per cent of the total force. This means that employees have left government service to go into more remunerative commercial geological service. Most of these men have gone into oil geology.

The Department of Geology offers courses in General Geology, Mineralogy, Crystallography, Petrography, Economic, Topographical and Petroleum Geology.

The Petroleum Geologist is rapidly coming to the front. New methods tending to conserve the supply of gas and oil are being adopted constantly. Recovery of gasoline from natural gas by the absorption method, and recovery of oil from shales by distillation are fields that are as yet but little developed in this country.

BOTANY

A SURVEY just completed shows former students of the Botany Department filling positions as missionaries, government employees, scientific technicians, health officers, explorers, teachers and home-makers. From Washington State to Washington, D. C., they have left their marks in colleges, universities, experiment stations and scientific laboratories, and the trail of their progress leads to Africa, Hawaii, Siam and the Philippines. From the rooms of Science Hall they pass, and the world becomes their laboratory.

ZOOLOGY

THE Department of Zoology offers major courses leading in three directions. First, where the work is a more general survey of various animals the Department offers the degree of B. S. in Zoology. Second, where special attention is given to insects, the curriculum leads to a degree in Entomology. Third, an arrangement of courses combines the essentials of zoology and botany into the option of Economic Biology.

Besides the training of teachers and investigators, this department largely serves the College in affording foundation science courses to students in departments of applied science and elsewhere.

Its workshops are the laboratory and field. "Know thyself first," is the laboratory motto; the field classes, "Study Nature before books."

ENGLISH

TO give to students a broad and clear vision of the problems of the world; to enable them to understand, appreciate and employ their mother tongue; to teach them to live for the world the ideals of a true democracy—such is the purpose of the Department of English.

With this in view, the courses in English have been chosen and grouped in the various years in order to better develop the minds of the students in these channels. Shakespeare, Milton, Carlyle, Ruskin and Bacon are studied. Public speaking and the fundamentals of the English language are taken up from all angles. Newspaper methods, writing of editorials, feature stories and magazine articles are the different phases studied in Journalism.

ECONOMIC SCIENCE AND HISTORY

THE expansion of Washington State College is perhaps the one thing of most vital interest to all the campus this year, and the Department of Economics and History is in the first rank in the endeavor to make the standard of the college broader. The growing need for a better understanding of the conditions in our rural districts has been felt by the faculty, and to meet this, new courses in rural social problems are being added. The department is making extensive plans for cooperation with the Red Cross and other rural organizations for the promotion of improved conditions and the training of leaders for these fields.

A two-year secretarial course will also be added next year. This will embrace some of the work that is now being done in the Department of Elementary Science with some additions and changes, and will be considered regular college work.

The CHINOOK of '21

FOREIGN LANGUAGES

“METHODS that give mastery” is the motto of the Foreign Language Department of Washington State College. Step by step a system of language teaching has been perfected that stands out as unique in the colleges and universities of today.

Study abroad being universally recognized as ideal in acquiring foreign languages, the Department offers to language students opportunities that closely approach those of residence in foreign lands.

By the modern, direct method, the languages are taught as living tongues and students attain a proficiency in the conversational use, as well as a fluent reading knowledge of the languages. Skilled native teachers train the students in an idiomatic command of the languages, providing the indispensable foreign contact without which there can be no mastery.

The language laboratory, unique in conception and equipment, enables the student to attain the elusive accent and intonation of the foreign tongues.

Foreign language houses are the latest development of this modern system. The Spanish House, conducted by native Castilians, is a complete success, and a French House is soon to follow.

Thus Washington State College offers a type of training in modern languages unequaled in American colleges.

COLLEGE OF MECHANIC ARTS & ENGINEERING

Dean Carpenter

AS the immortal Mr. Dooley once remarked to his friend Hennessy: "Hennessy," says he, "a dimmicrat is a poor but proud citizen who thinks for himself—wrong; while a raypublican is a rich but humble plutocrat who hires someone to think for him—right." The definitions are probably not orthodox with either political party, and in the same way any definition of the word "engineer" which has been given would not pass muster with either the engineer's friends or his enemies, but it is the first duty of an engineering college to think out for itself, or otherwise, a good enough definition of an engineer so that it can proceed to train one. The State College of Washington has for many years offered a considerable variety of engineering courses, and to date it seems impossible to say which division has turned out the largest percentage of successful engineers; consequently, it has been decided to undertake the training of some additional varieties. The following descriptive statements will show the breadth of choice now open to the new student entering the State College.

The CHINOOK of '21

ARCHITECTURE

IN this course the student is trained to design not only for strength and convenience, but to know, appreciate and to adapt to his own problems the best types of ancient and modern architecture.

CIVIL ENGINEERING

THIS course is arranged to prepare young men who wish to specialize as highway or railway engineers, or in the field of heavy steel construction for bridges, office buildings, etc., or for work in the field of hydraulics and irrigation. A new curriculum in civil engineering makes provision for those who wish to specialize in the administration of the technical work of large cities. This course will be known as "management engineering" and combines with the technical course a group of courses in business administration and accounting which are needed in this field, and also a study of the problems of sanitation arising in city work.

ELECTRICAL ENGINEERING

GRADUATES of this division have found their way into nearly every serious engineering enterprise of the Northwest, besides appearing in nearly every country of the globe. In addition to the standard courses in electrical engineering given with little change by all of the large schools of the country, the State College offers a special course in hydro-electrical engineering which is planned particularly for Northwest conditions, and also a new course in commercial-electrical engineering for those who wish to enter the business side of the great public utility corporations or other commercial phases of electrical engineering.

The CHINOOK of '21

MECHANICAL ENGINEERING

MECHANICAL Engineering prepares men for the great fields of manufacturing, power production, transportation, etc., their multitude of ramifications and subdivisions, ranging from the designing of a caterpillar tractor to the perfecting of an automatic machine for weaving silks, or from the testing of a 50,000 H. P. steam turbine to the development of standards of measurements bordering closely upon a millionth of an inch. Mechanical engineering is also associated with commercial training in the new course in commercial-mechanical engineering.

AUTOMOBILE ENGINEERING

IN order to accommodate young men who wish to enter the automobile business, a group of courses has been arranged in a two-year schedule, in which the necessary fundamentals of electricity, gas engines and automobile construction are taught and a large amount of laboratory practice is included. The courses in ignition, carburetors and storage batteries have been worked out with particular care in order to make them as directly useful as possible. Students having considerable previous experience can cover the essentials of this course in one year.

MATHEMATICS

MATHEMATICS is an art as well as a science; it has utilitarian and aesthetic values. Those who pursue the study of Mathematics find the same pleasure in discovering harmonies of numbers, properties of space, and relations of functions which is found by other artists in poetry, painting, sculpture and music. It is impossible to progress in Mathematics without developing a creative imagination. Mathematics, logic and philosophy are three phases of the same fundamental principle. Mathematics is the science upon which most other sciences depend.

COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURE

Dean Johnson

THE College of Agriculture is one of the larger units of the State College of Washington and includes the Departments of Agriculture, Engineering, Animal Husbandry, Dairy Husbandry, Farm Crops, Farm Management, Forestry, Horticulture, Plant Pathology, Poultry Husbandry, and Soils. Through these departments it gives instruction and training in all the more important branches in practical and technical agriculture.

Students in the College of Agriculture have opportunity to observe the work done at the central experiment station at Pullman, both in the laboratories and on the farm. Thus they gain an insight into the methods used in the search for the truths of nature which underlie practical agriculture. The training thus received is well adapted for those who expect to become farmers, farm managers, county agents, club leaders, teachers, agricultural representatives for banks, representatives on farm papers, or dealers in farm implements and equipment.

While more than fifty per cent of the work of the agricultural student is in the College of Agriculture, instruction in the basic sciences and arts constitutes a liberal part of the agricultural course and is provided by the other colleges and schools of the institution. The agricultural student, therefore, gets a well rounded training which fits him not only for the immediate work which he is to do, but for citizenship in its fullest sense.

There are many clubs and organizations such as the Saddle and Sirloin Club, the Horticultural Club, the Dairy Club, the All-Ag Club and the honorary fraternity of Alpha Zeta, through which some of the activities of the students in the College of Agriculture are exercised.

The CHINOOK of '21

SOILS

THE courses offered by the Department of Soils deals with the practical as well as the theoretical and the work of this department naturally divides itself into three groups. The courses in soil physics, soil fertility and soil biology are fundamental; those in dry farming, irrigation farming and soil management aim to apply the fundamentals to field practice; and the research courses furnish an opportunity for the development of initiative and self confidence in the student.

Field plots, laboratories and plant houses furnish part of the equipment of the department.

AGRICULTURAL ENGINEERING

THE Department of Agricultural Engineering offers work in building construction and design, and in farm concrete construction. Standard plans of buildings are sent over the state to those who request them. To meet the demand for specific information on the farm lighting plants, water systems, heating plants and power driven equipment, and conveniences for the farm home and around the buildings, the course in Farmstead Equipment was given this year for the first time. Farm drainage is also an important course offered by this department.

A major course in Agricultural Engineering is now scheduled in the College of Agriculture. The curriculum is designed for those whose problems on the farm are largely those of machinery, buildings, equipment and reclamation. This training fits men to enter specialized commercial fields, which are allied with agriculture.

The CHINOOK of '21

FARM MANAGEMENT

THE Department of Farm Management complements and rounds out the work of the specialized departments by organizing the various factors of production into farm units to be operated for profit. The student who learns how to make the soil very rich, how to grow a maximum crop, how to produce a good show animal, how to produce certified milk, etc., has not completed his agricultural education until he has studied the fundamental principles underlying their economical production.

This department affords opportunity for research in special lines of farming or in special problems in farm management, in addition to the general courses.

FORESTRY

THE value and importance of our forests to the nation as well as to the communities in the forested regions are becoming more apparent as our virgin forests are being depleted and the price of forest products advances.

Next to food, no other article of commerce is so largely responsible for the rapid expansion and development of civilization and the industries in the world as is a cheap building material. Our forests have supplied and will continue to supply, an abundance of such material if properly handled. They have changed from a thing to be destroyed to make way for agricultural crops, to something to be protected, conserved and regenerated. This is the object of the practice of scientific forestry and the need of such work has been recently strongly emphasized in a demand that private as well as national timber lands be more scientifically handled.

The CHINOOK of '21

ANIMAL HUSBANDRY

THE Department of Animal Husbandry offers courses designed to teach students the fundamental principles of judging, feeding and the management of live stock.

For the instructional work in judging and practice work in care and management, a herd of twenty-four head of Short Horn, Hereford and Aberdeen Angus cattle, fifty head of Duroc-Jersey, Poland-China and Berkshire hogs, and a flock of approximately seventy-five head of Hampshire, Shropshire and Rambouillet sheep are maintained. The State College of Washington, with the limited number of animals from which to make selections, made a creditable exhibit of live stock at the leading fairs of the Northwest this past season. During the season twenty-eight championships, thirty-six first prizes and twenty second prizes were won.

Graduates of the College of Agriculture who specialized in Animal Husbandry now number among the prominent and progressive men of the Northwest. Responsible positions in all phases of the animal industry are being successfully filled by students who have prepared themselves in this line of work.

POULTRY HUSBANDRY

TO the poultry industry in the State, the Department of Poultry Husbandry brings not only the results of its experiments along various lines of poultry work, but also, through its students, it brings new and trained poultry enthusiasts to take up and continue the work of poultry production.

In class rooms and laboratories, students are trained for owners of, and workers on, poultry farms, for feed specialists, and for government and extension workers. Courses are offered in poultry production and management; in handling and marketing of dressed poultry and eggs; in poultry feeding and housing, and in the food values and preparation of poultry and eggs from the standpoint of the home.

In the All-Northwest Egg-Laying Contest are entered birds of various breeds, and the records made here afford valuable data for comparison of feed and egg records of different breeds and of different individuals.

HORTICULTURE

HORTICULTURE is one of the largest divisions of agriculture in Washington. The Department of Horticulture serves the state in college extension work. Washington has in the last three years produced more commercial apples than any other state in the Union, and stands second in the list of vegetable seed production.

The correspondence and field work of the men in the department keep them in close touch with the fruit and vegetable growers of the state and give a basis for publications on the various phases of the work. The work of the departments in both college teaching and extension work covers all phases of fruit and vegetable production, storage and management, floriculture and landscape gardening. Special services are being rendered in landscaping the grounds of rural public schools.

FARM CROPS

THE Farm Crops Department is organized along three well defined lines, that of giving student instruction, of carrying on experimental work and of furnishing information to the public.

Student instruction is covered by courses in Cereal Crops, Forage Crops, Crop Breeding, Grain Grading, Weed Eradication and Research. All class work is of a practical nature and demonstrated by actual experiments.

The experimental work consists of extensive tests to determine what crops and which varieties give the greatest returns and to improve new strains by careful selection and breeding. Special emphasis is laid on pure seed production, resistant types of cereals, rotation practices and methods of cropping.

The Department is in a position to supply valuable information to the farmers of the state and to furnish them with pure seed of superior varieties to replace low yielding and mixed grains. Information is given out through extensive correspondence, bulletins and pamphlets.

The CHINOOK of '21

DAIRY HUSBANDRY

THE course in Dairy Husbandry offers two lines of work along which a student may specialize, namely, Production and Manufacturing. Dairy production has to do with the development, care and management of a dairy herd, or, in other words, it has to do with the production of stock as well as of milk.

The aim of the course in production is to train men to be successful dairy farmers. If this aim is accomplished dairy graduates will be entirely competent to hold positions in many other lines of work, such as that of county agents, governmental experts, teachers, herdsman, etc.

Dairy Manufacturing is just as essential to the dairy industry as packing is to the meat industry or mills are to the wheat industry. Many raw food materials have to be specially treated, or manufactured into other products before they are consumed. This important work is performed for the dairy industry by market milk plants, creameries, cheese factories, condensories and ice cream plants.

The Dairy Department operates a commercial creamery in the city of Pullman, where instructional work in the various lines of manufacture is given.

PLANT PATHOLOGY

WHEN there is a failure of thrifty development or a failure to produce a commercial product of satisfactory quantity or quality, the crop plant is in a diseased condition. This gives us the broadest view of the province of Plant Pathology, which deals with the kinds, causes and methods of control of the many diseases that affect the life of plants and so interfere with crop production. Each crop plant has its own peculiar diseases, either few or many.

Smuts, rusts, leaf spots, mildews, blights, wilts, cankers, crown galls, hairy roots, witches' brooms, yellows, mosaic and many other abnormal conditions are a delight to the plant pathologist, for by annihilating them he proves his theories.

COLLEGE OF HOME-ECONOMICS

Dean Harrison

TO the end that the home may be made a center of intelligent effort in which to bring up the child that he may attain his greatest degree of efficiency, the State College of Washington offers courses especially arranged to meet the needs of women who are to be homemakers and housekeepers. Increasing woman's efficiency will help her to perform her various duties so that she may have a convenient, wholesome, refined and satisfying basis for physical life and also enable her to enlarge the interests of the home so that spiritual and intellectual advancement may be made.

The vocational homemaking courses, which are being put into the schools under the Smith-Hughes Act for Vocational Education, are creating a desire in the home for better knowledge and better methods. The teachers of vocational homemaking must be especially trained for this work and the College of Home Economics is endeavoring to train young women to enter this field of teaching.

The management of tea rooms, cafeterias, dormitories and other institutions is gradually being taken over by women and opportunities are opening up along this line for women who have an aptitude for such work. Training along this line is also offered.

Ruskin says: "Man is only educated if he is happy, busy, beneficial and effective in the world." The field of Home Economics offers ample opportunities for one to be happy, busy, beneficial and effective in service to mankind.

COLLEGE OF VETERINARY SCIENCE

Vice Dean Wegner

THIS College was founded in 1898, has graduated one hundred and five men and has at the present time forty-five students enrolled.

Graduates in veterinary science are particularly fortunate in that such an education lends itself to a wide range of vocations. Our graduates are found in veterinary practice, army work as commissioned officers, agricultural colleges and experiment stations, inspection work with the Bureau of Animal Husbandry, and are employed by states, counties and cities as sanitary officers in charge of contagious diseases and guarding human health by eliminating the dangers from infections through meat and milk.

The education of our veterinarians is founded on scientific principles so essential to a correct understanding of the great problems that confront them as graduates. Their responsibility in controlling diseases in animals and in preventing their spread to human beings is such as to require adequate training in a thorough course of scientific study.

SCHOOL OF MUSIC & APPLIED DESIGN

Dean Kimborough

THE rapidly increasing enrollment of students from all parts of Washington and from other states of the Northwest is the best indication of the high standards of work in the courses maintained by this school. To meet this increased enrollment four additional instructors were engaged for 1919-20, and it was necessary to build and equip eight additional practice rooms for music students.

A beginning has been made in extending the advantages of the Department of Music to people of the State who are not in attendance at Pullman. Courses in Music Appreciation and Harmony are being presented to interested groups in Spokane through the Department of General Extension.

Students in Music, Expression and Dramatic Art contribute much to the student life of the College through recitals, plays, oratorios, operas and concerts by the Chorus, Glee Club, Orchestra, Band and other ensemble organizations. Students in Art and Design have the opportunity of contributing cartoons, drawings and decorations to the Evergreen, the Chinook, the Glebe and to other student publications.

SCHOOL OF PHARMACY

Dr. Dirstine

THE demand for competent pharmacists is greater today than at any time in the past quarter century. Many of the boys who have but recently returned from the war are now engaging in business for themselves. The drug business, which has been, in common with all other lines of business, more or less uncertain for the past six years, is now upon a settled basis. Many pharmacists who have been waiting for business conditions to stabilize are now engaging in pharmacy. They are opening new stores in new locations and many attractive positions are open for competent graduates.

The enrollment in the School of Pharmacy for the present year is fifty per cent greater than for any previous year in the history of the College.

The School of Pharmacy offers a two-year course, a three-year course and a four-year course in Pharmacy. Over fifty per cent of the students enrolling in pharmacy are three and four year students. The School of Pharmacy also offers a two-year course in pre-medicine and pre-dentistry.

The School of Pharmacy has as its purpose the training of men and women for a vocation in life that offers many opportunities, especially in practice of retail pharmacy, pharmaceutical chemists for manufacturing drug firms, chemists, food and drug inspectors, Federal and State; teachers of pharmacy and chemistry, traveling salesmen, investigators in pharmaceutical research.

SCHOOL OF EDUCATION

THE School of Education has grown rapidly during the past few years and plays a varied part in the work of the College. In addition to the work in education, there is combined in this school General, Experimental and Advanced Psychology and the work in Manual Arts required of those preparing to teach that subject.

One of the important functions of the school is the training of teachers for the high schools of the state. Prospective high school teachers who major in education are permitted to elect the subject or subjects they wish to teach.

The work in School Administration, Supervision of Instruction, and such new departures as the Junior High school is receiving special attention for the benefit of those advanced students who are preparing for administrative and supervisory positions.

The School of Education, in cooperation with the College of Agriculture and the State Board of Vocational Education, provides for the training of teachers of Vocational Agriculture for Smith-Hughes School. In addition to the foundation courses in Education Methods of Teaching Agriculture and Vocational Guidance are given. Provision is also made for practice teaching under the supervision of the professor of agricultural education. Research work is constantly being carried on in the psychology laboratories.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

Dr. Bohler

THE Department of Physical Education now offers a four-year course leading to a Bachelor of Science degree in Physical Education.

Thirteen states, recognizing the essential health needs, have now passed compulsory Physical Education laws. Washington is one of these. Other states have similar bills pending. In fact, there is a nation-wide demand for a health program, but to secure the largest health values it is essential that such a program be under competent supervision. To this end this work is offered.

Very few of the schools in our state can employ full-time teachers for physical training. The majority will be part time teachers. Coaches of athletic teams are generally expected to take charge of the gymnastic and mass athletic work for the boys, while the woman teacher will very often be required to take charge of the physical and recreational work of the girls. The field, however, is not limited to teaching and coaching in the public schools. There is a demand for community recreational directors, playground workers, etc. This department can do a service anywhere by teaching folks healthful and enjoyable use of leisure time.

SCHOOL OF MINES

Dean Howard

THE School of Mines reports the largest enrollment since before the war. Conditions in the basic industry of mining were never better for the young graduate. It is impossible to fill the demands for technical graduates in mining and metallurgy, and because of the satisfactory positions they now hold, graduates are unable to respond to these daily openings.

The School of Mines does not confine its work to preparing students for the mining profession, but serves the state in many other ways. Because of the shortage of engineers many problems are referred to its staff by companies who desire to improve their methods or devise new ones. The school staff is now working on three pressing problems of ore treatment that promise early solution, and should enable three important companies to resume production. Owners of properties in the prospect stage of development are also aided by suggestions regarding the method of development, the application of mining laws, and other questions of immediate importance to them. The free examination of minerals is a service that is being widely used.

COLLEGE EXTENSION

F. F. Nalder

TO carry the intellectual service of the State College of Washington to all residents of the State who desire it, but who can not attend classes on the campus: this is the purpose of the Division of General College Extension. This, the newest department of the College, was established in September, 1919, and Dr. F. F. Nalder, a graduate of the class of 1901, was appointed director. He came with the benefit of some years' experience on the Extension Staff of the University of California.

This General Extension Work is carried on by four methods:

1. By circulating educational moving picture films and stereopticon slides, which are displayed in schools, colleges, churches, and before civic and industrial bodies.
2. By organizing extension courses and sending instructors to them.
3. By giving correspondence courses.
4. By supplying extension lecturers and musical recitals.

The public response to the announcement of this work by the College has been spontaneous and altogether gratifying. The influence of General College Extension has become widely felt and promises to become a noteworthy feature of the College.

ELEMENTARY SCIENCE

THE purpose of the Department of Elementary Science is threefold. First, it is primarily a vocational school. A great many young men and women do not finish high school work, and when past the high school age realize they want more education. There are only two doors to them for a higher education—the private business college, offering along commercial lines only, and elementary science departments such as the one at the State College of Washington.

This department offers vocational courses embracing all lines of work, with the added opportunities of college life and of taking cultural courses in literature, history and art, which serve to give them a well rounded education.

The second purpose is to meet the needs of the boys and girls in rural districts. Only two hundred out of over two thousand school districts in the State of Washington offer four-year high school courses. To the young people of these districts the Elementary Science Department of the State College, with its ideal rural environment, opens its doors, giving them the desired work, either to fit them for college entrance or to earn their own living.

The third class of students served by this department is composed of those from city high schools, where only a few vocational courses are offered—high school students who wish to increase their earning power.

Two types of courses are offered. One-year courses include auto mechanics, dairying, farm mechanics, bookkeeping, domestic science, drafting, stenography, general farming and music. The three-year courses offer more extensive work along the same lines with opportunity of some college courses.

The moving finger writes, - and, having writ,
Moves on: nor all thy piety nor wit
Shall lure it back to cancel half a line,
Nor all thy tears wash out a word of it.

DEBATE

Collins

Bradbury

Hamilton

Debate and oratory at the State College of Washington are under the direct control of the Associated Students, and are supported by a fixed proportion of the funds of this body. The administration of matters connected with forensic activities left to the Debate Committee of three students, and the regularly employed coach. Debaters are chosen from among the undergraduates by the coach after a series of trial debates, rather than by a single tryout.

Besides the regular intercollegiate contests held annually, an interclass debate, a Freshman-Sophomore Oratorical Contest, and a Declamatory Contest are held. Gold emblems (W) are awarded to students who represent the college in either oratory or debate; a silver loving cup is given to the winner of the interclass contest, and gold medals or cash prizes are awarded the winners of the other contests.

GLEE CLUB

ALL set with catchy songs and popular melodies, and a carload of scenery, they left, twenty strong, for the twenty-third annual tour of the state, on March 25. The Quartet led out by taking a side trip to St. John early that morning, the rest of the club coming over to Colfax by car later in the day. After the performance a well planned party was given them in Virgil McCroskey's private apartments, with lots of ice cream and cake and coffee and girls.

Oakesdale crowded the house on March 26, and then treated the club to a blizzard and a dance afterwards.

Saturday they hit Spokane in prime condition to give them the best they had. Sid Allison, in his lady's outfit, created quite a stir at Davenport's after the program. Sunday was given over to dinner parties, sacred concerts, and a trip to St. Luke's hospital by the Quartet to sing for Dr. Golder, who was there at the time. Several old Glee Club men came around to shake hands with the boys. Doc Egge, Fred Salt, Lee Smith all were well pleased with the show.

At Tekoa Monday night the boys were a little bit off color, due to the reaction after Spokane. They staged their own dance there by getting the telephone girls to spread the word and announcing it at the high school and at the show. One of the natives at the hotel complained about the boys singing "Let's All Be Good Pals Together" at 4 A. M., but to no avail.

Tuesday morning at nine o'clock found them on their way to Waitsburg. It was on this ride that Professor Butterfield jumped into fame as a warbler and imitator of the famous "Gillagaloo" bird. Waitsburg was the center of a big dust storm when they arrived, but nevertheless had a crowded house. The quartet drew deep water here on account of the popularity of their lyric tenor, Verl Keiser. Part of the club went to Walla Walla that night, the rest coming over early the next morning. Wednesday morning they gave the Walla Walla high school a short and snappy program.

Kennewick turned out en masse to hear the club, and even with the handicap of a small stage they gave a good show. Beck felt right at home when an old gentleman told him, in answer to his inquiry as to where the hotel was, "Aye tank it bane straight down the street." Again Carl Fritts, the handsome man of the club, made a hit.

Ellensburg, on Thursday night, was the crowning night of the entire trip. Standing room only, an enthusiastic audience, and a wonderful stage all added to give the club a fine opportunity to do their best. Undoubtedly they put on their best show here.

Prosser, on Friday night, was devoid of a great many thrills except the overcrowded auditorium.

South Bend met them with a tea party, given by Foster, to whom hearty thanks is due. Professor Butterfield qualified as a satirist of note when, on being asked how long they had been on their trip, answered quite wearily: "Only nine days—but about eighteen nights."

Seven o'clock Sunday morning found them on their way to Seattle, where they arrived at two o'clock, and immediately went to the Y. M. C. A., where they gave their sacred concert. Monday night was spent in Tacoma, and everything went well. Another dinner dance at the Tacoma hotel topped off a splendid evening.

Tuesday night at Aberdeen was full of thrills. A musical comedy, with a big chorus, afforded a lot of amusement to some of the boys. Despite all competition they drew a good house, and then afterwards had a dance at the Elk's hall. Nobody seemed to be unhappy at Aberdeen.

Olympia, Wednesday night, will long be remembered by all of the boys. Again a case of standing room only, and a very successful show, followed by a reception at the Governor's mansion by W. S. C. alumni and high school seniors.

Mt. Vernon Thursday night, and more rain. Hilborn got into the spotlight here by overturning the flowers on the stage. The usual "standing room only" sign was employed here also.

Bellingham, on Friday night, was another bright spot on the trip. A good crowd and a fine stage, plus a little Canadian inspiration, put the program over in fine shape. Part of the boys went out on a clam-dig in the afternoon, and from all reports Tiny Armstrong was the Clam King. Forrest Beck scored a big hit here. His home town, of course. And little Leslie Sorenson, how he did surprise the boys!

Waterville, the last town on their schedule, was reached after many weary hours on the train and by stage coach. Even with tickets at one dollar and a half, the house was sold out a week in advance. Carl Fritts and Winfield Henderson were the center of attraction here. Why? Home town! A feed at the high school, one dance and a frantic dash to get a seat in the stage at twelve o'clock, and they were on their way home, tired, sleepy, grouchy, restless, but happy, their tour finished.

Albion Horrall, as Dr. Simmons, displayed his dramatic ability and was a favorite on account of the easy and natural way he acted. The doctor, who was interested in anything but his profession, tried a new kind of treatment, which proved to have as much effect on himself as on his patient.

Harold Truax, in the role of Budd Wood, was the cause for many a laugh due to his utter despondency and comical situations that enfolded him. Budd was the patient and proved a fit patient for the doctor to work on.

The part of Budd's mother was very well handled by Dorothy Chamberlin. It was she, in the interest of her dear son, that got Budd to take the treatment for the dreadful disease of love-sickness.

Hulda Schweer as Virginia Melvin did her part exceptionally well. As the doctor's capable nurse she was the cause of no little enmity between Budd and his fiancée.

Ada St. Peter appeared as Grace Taylor and was very highly praised. Grace was the sole reason for the patient visiting the doctor and the cause of much jealousy.

Mildred Bothwell, as Gertrude, and Elizabeth La Rue as Marion Simmons, as minor parts, did very well. Robert Douglas as Preston De Von, portrayed his part in a very realistic manner. Along with the rest Ralph Nash and Charles Jans, as servants, deserve part of the credit that made the play a success.

"ELIZA COMES TO STAY"

"Eliza Comes to Stay," a three-act comedy, was presented in the College Auditorium June 10, 1919, by the Senior Class of '19. The parts were very well played and the play was a success from every viewpoint. Miss Melcena La Follette was coach.

In the first act we find the Hon. Sandy Verrall making violent preparations for the arrival of his deceased friend's little daughter, Eliza. His uncle, his maiden aunt and his friends offer entirely too much good advice, but finally the ward arrives, and much to the surprise of every one, Eliza is a young lady and not a little girl.

During the second act Lady Pennybroke tries to help her dear nephew in the making over of Eliza, but the attempt is not successful, and we find Eliza in love with the Hon. Sandy.

Act three brings about the marriage of Sandy's uncle and Vera Lawrence, the girl Sandy thought he loved. Then Sandy wakes up to the fact that he loves Eliza, and the story ends as all stories do.

THE TREBLE CLEF CLUB

THE Treble Clef Club is an organization of eight of the advanced voice students of Mrs. Ina Wright-Herbst. Its purpose is to give them practice in ensemble singing, four-part songs being the music usually selected, although quintets and trios of exceptional worth have also been sung by the Club.

This is the fourth year of the Club's existence, each previous year's work having culminated in a tour of some part of the Inland Empire. The trip of 1918-19 was the most extensive heretofore undertaken, extending from Rosalia to Vancouver.

Owing to the unprecedented attendance and consequent crowded condition of all departments this year, it was impossible to take up the work of the club till well into the second semester, making a tour this season impracticable. The Club will make several appearances at the State College, however, and expects to organize early next fall and plan for a trip similar to that of last year.

MILITARY

Capt. Cleary

Lt. Scott

EVER since the Civil War there have been certain far-sighted men who have looked upon educational institutions as a source from whence officers of our military forces might be drawn. As a result, Congress has enacted laws which require all the male students attending land grant institutions to devote a small part of their time to military training. The War Department has established at this institution two Infantry units of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps, a Senior unit for students enrolled in college, and a Junior unit for those in the Elementary Science Department. The purpose is to provide a thorough and systematic training in the fundamentals of Military Science in order to qualify the student to be commissioned in the Reserve Forces of the United States.

The basic course is required of freshmen, sophomores and elementary students, and consists of a two-year course covering the practical and theoretical training of the cadet in military drill. The advanced course is optional and is open to students who have completed the basic course and have been recommended for further training. It is a two years' course and includes map reading, military sketching, elementary surveying, leadership, and other duties to fit the men for the ranks of second lieutenant in the United States Army. Students enrolled in this course receive commutation of subsistence from the Government during the entire course, except when attending camp.

Captain A. W. Cleary, Commandant, who came to Washington State College in November, 1919, was commissioned a Second Lieutenant in the regular army in 1908 and assigned to the 23rd Infantry. During the war he held the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel, and prior to his assignment here served as executive officer of the staff of Major General Omar Bundy at Camp Lee, Virginia.

First Lieutenant W. T. Scott, assistant to the commandant, came to the college in January, 1920. Lieutenant Scott was commissioned in August, 1917, and assigned to the 43rd Infantry.

The CHINOOK of '21

GUSTAVIUS A. WELCH—Gus

Like Lonestar Dietz, the new coach is a graduate of Carlisle and a disciple of the Warner system of coaching. Against great odds of shortage of material and early season injuries, Welch built up a machine that all but won the championship. He won the admiration of every man on the squad with his insistence of clean athletics.

CARL F. DIETZ

A State College veteran of many seasons, secured by Doc Bohler this year as Assistant Director of Athletics. His work in coaching the backfield men was of great assistance to Coach Welch.

CLARENCE ZIMMERMANN—Zim

Another gridiron veteran of four years on the Crimson and Gray team. Chosen for both the Northwest and Pacific Coast All-Star teams in 1918. Coached the Freshman eleven last fall, besides lending valuable assistance to the Varsity coaches.

The CHINOOK of '21

RICHARD E. HANLEY, Captain—Dick

Quarterback and veteran of four seasons. Dick was quarterback and captain of Bill Dietz' famous Mare Island team of 1918, and brought back to the State College the same fight and spirit that he had put into the Marine games.

FRED HAMILTON, Captain-elect—Ham

Played his third year for the State College. A consistent tackle of no mean ability, who made many holes in opposing lines in the California, Washington and Oregon games.

WALTER B. HERREID—Fat

His last year for the Crimson and Gray. One of the most consistent tackles ever turned out at the State College. Named as All-Coast tackle both in 1917 and 1919. Stopped the Oregon game at Portland to pick up a nickle he found in the mud.

The CHINOOK of '21

BERT BROOKS

Switched to end after playing two years at tackle. Given a place on several All-Coast selections at tackle. Granted his blanket this year with three years of football service.

LE ROY H. HANLEY—Roy

Three years on the team at the end position. All-Coast and All-Northwest honors. Another member of the Mare Island eleven coached by Lonestar Dietz. One of the players around which Welch will build his team next year.

LLOYD A. GILLIS—Gill

Most consistent plunger in the conference, gaining 80 yards from scrimmage in one game this year. Played as fullback last fall, and one of the big bets for the Cougar team next year. Played his third year.

The CHINOOK of '21

ROBERT D. SCHNEBLY—Bob

Played his second year as linesman. Coach Welch could never tell the two twins apart until one of them got over the ball. A consistent plugger and hard for the opposing line to solve.

CARL C. KING

Third year on the squad, but first year on the team. Played a consistent game at guard when not out with injuries. One of Doc's most valuable athletes, as he can be counted on to win weight points in all track meets.

LEO MORAN—Mike

A consistent ground gainer at halfback. Member of the Freshman team of 1917 and of the Mare Island team of 1918. First year on the team, but not the last, judging from his past record of accomplishment.

The CHINOOK of '21

ELDON I. JENNE

Developed by Coach Welch from a green man into one of the most efficient punters in the conference. A broken ankle in the Washington game kept him out of the late season contests. Also a whirlwind in track—one of Doc's best bets.

EARL A. DUNLAP—Dutch

First year on the team, playing at center. Hard, consistent training and plugging won his spurs for him. Will be a man for the conference to contend with in future seasons.

MILO McIVOR—Pink

Understudy of Dick Hanley at quarterback. Heady and quick, his presence in a game always lent plenty of snap to the play. First year on the team.

The CHINOOK of '21

ARNOLD A. ELLWART—Dutch

First year on the team, but a power to be reckoned with at guard. Helped to strengthen the Cougar line to make it one of the best defensive ones in the Conference.

RUFUS C. SCHNEBLY—Rufe

The other twin, and just as good as his brother. Made his first letter at the guard position. The two together make a formidable line in themselves.

RAYMOND KING—Ray

Went into the California game to replace his injured brother, and surprised his teammates with his consistent play. A sophomore, making his letter for the first time.

The CHINOOK of '21

HAROLD L. HANLEY—Bones

A worthy understudy of his brother Roy at the end position. First year on the squad and team. The third of the famous Hanley family of athletes.

FRANK SKADAN—Curley

Another sub quarterback who suffered a broken ankle in the Oregon game. Although lacking slightly in the requirements for a letter, received the coveted W as a reward for his perseverance. First year on the team.

1919 FOOTBALL

FOOTBALL prospects were never brighter at the State College than they were in September, 1919. The new coach, Gustavius A. Welch, of Carlyle and Dickinson Law School, was greeted with a squad of 75 huskies, made up in great part of squad men of former years, just back from the service.

The turnout for the line positions was particularly gratifying, with two and three veterans for each place on the team. In the backfield, the candidates were not so plentiful, with the result that later in the season injuries in this department handicapped the coach considerably.

The first game of the season, that with the Multnomah Athletic Club at Spokane on October 18, easily went to the Cougars at a score of 49 to 0. The score at the end of the first half was 42 to 0, and Coach Welch finished the game with second string men.

On Tuesday, October 21, Coach Welch and Doc Bohler gathered together their clan of football warriors and set out for the South to meet the University of California. The game was heralded over the Coast as the conference championship game, even with the season scarcely opened. And the State College Cougars came off the field victorious with a score of 14 to 0, after pounding and smashing Andy Smith's line and smothering his backfield time and again. The Cougars twice held the Bears within their ten-yard line and once stopped their advance two yards from the goal.

The next week Welch's proteges humbled the University of Idaho eleven with a score of 37 to 0—and that with Fred Hamilton out during the whole game and Captain Hanley, Gillis and Roy Hanley relieved in the latter part of the game. It was in this game that Jenne put over a 40-foot drop-kick, one of the prettiest seen on Rogers Field in several seasons.

The Cougar stock continued to rise the next Saturday, when a lone touchdown by Gillis, following a series of bucks by Moran and himself, won the game from the University of Oregon by a score of 7 to 0. The game was the hardest fought of the season, Oregon making a total yardage of 241 against the State College's 234. Curley Skadan, playing quarterback in place of Captain Hanley, who was in the hospital from Idaho injuries, went out with a broken ankle early in the game.

U. OF W. GAME

The CHINOOK of '21

The next game—the big contest of the year—was the Cougar Waterloo. For, on the memorable Home-Coming Day of 1919, the 15th of November, the University of Washington outlucked the Welch men and defeated them by a score of 13 to 7. Time and again, Gillis and Moran plunged the ball within striking distance of the University goal, only to lose it on downs. Jenne went out with a broken ankle early in the game, thus depriving the team of his punting. The game ended with a score of 13 to 7 in favor of the University, but with the yardage figures overwhelmingly in favor of the Cougars, 250 to 125. This was the game that dashed the hopes of the State College for the privilege of entering the East-West contest at Pasadena.

The jinx stayed with the team, for on November 22, at Portland, O. A. C. downed the Cougars with two place kicks and a score of 6 to 0, but with yardage gained again overwhelmingly in favor of the losers. Five times the ball was advanced within ten yards of O. A. C.'s goal, and twice went over only to be fumbled.

The rejuvenated State College eleven came back strong on Turkey Day, and defeated the University of Montana at Missoula by a score of 42 to 14. This was the final game of the season, and the last for Captain Hanley, Bert Brooks and Walt Herreid.

FRESHMAN FOOTBALL TEAM, 1919

Ends—Hall, Bray, Tilly and Loomis.

Tackles—Dunton, McKay and Davis.

Guards—Hamilton, See, Marker, Wivell and Cole.

Centers—Stackhouse and Kee.

Quarterbacks—Captain Sax and Rouse.

Halfbacks—Sandberg, Kelly, McGrew, McGee and McDonald.

Fullback—Powers.

The CHINOOK of '21

Captain Dick Hanley, Bert Brooks and Walter Herried played their last football for the State College on Thanksgiving Day, after giving their Alma Mater everything they had from the time they were Freshmen. All of them except Brooks completed four years of football, having entered before freshmen were barred from conference contests. Each of them was mentioned during their football careers as conference All-Stars. Captain Dick was quarterback of the famous Mare Island team, and Brooks and Herried were also members of service teams during the war. Both Herried and Brooks played tackle regularly, but Brooks was shifted to end last fall by Coach Welch.

TEAM AND COACHES

The CHINOOK of '21

CAPTAIN DAVE KUEHL

The CHINOOK of '21

DAVID KUEHL, Captain—Dave

Captain Dave took his time getting through college, but was always on the job when it came to baseball. A catcher of no mean ability. Coach as well as captain. Fourth year on the team.

NORBERT KULZER, Captain-elect—Norm

Varsity pitcher in 1915 and 1917. A good fielder when not in the box. Plenty of smoke on the ball and hard for the opposing stickmen to solve.

BRYAN M. LEWIS—Busher

Ex-captain, and a pitcher of regular big league caliber. His batting average of .270 for the season made him a valuable man even when out of the box.

The CHINOOK of '21

CLYDE COOK

A pitcher with lots of smoke on the ball. Second year on the team.

McCLELLAN W. ROCKEY—Chick

A fixture at second base. Second in batting average with a percentage of 290 for the season. Consistent in baseball as he is in basketball.

ALBERT MULLER—Al

Long and lanky enough to hold down the first sack competently. Second year on the team. Batted .280 during the season.

The CHINOOK of '21

HENRY W. LOREN—Hank

Playing his second year at the shortstop position, Loren came through in the pinches and showed real class.

J. BEN SWANSON—Swan

The only portside flinger on the team. Playing under the crimson and gray colors for the first time, he made an exceptionally good record.

MARTCIL KOTULA—Toolie

Delivered the goods at the third sack like a veteran. Second year on the squad, but first on the team. Not unhandy with the stick.

The CHINOOK of '21

HARRY BENSON—Sheep

First year on the team, playing center field. Always ready with the bat when the time came for a pinch hit.

HAROLD MORGAN—Hal

Lead the team in hitting, gathering in an even .300 for his per centage column. Played his first year in left field.

SEASON'S BASEBALL REVIEW

THE baseball season looked rather rosy at the start, with seven letter men back for the team's nucleus. Captain Dave Kuehl early assumed the role of student-coach, owing to the impossibility of obtaining a regular man for the job.

The season started off well, with two wins from Idaho. The first game went by a score of 7 to 1, with Busher Lewis pitching almost air-tight ball, allowing only three hits. The second was a record-breaker, a win for the State College with a score of 24 to 1.

Two days later the State College dream of a championship was rudely dispelled by the Oregon Aggie team, with a score of 14 to 7. Three pitchers were unable to stop the Aggie onslaught, especially with the State men making 16 errors. The following day the Crimson and Gray team redeemed itself, when, with Busher Lewis in the box, the visitors were put away with a score of 3 to 0, only three hits being credited to the Aggie batsmen.

On April 25, the team started the six-game Coast series with defeat at the hands of the University of Washington, nine by a score of 10 to 6. Loose ball playing on the part of the infield was responsible for the loss. On the following day, the State College men came back strong and held the University to a score of 3 to 0, with Cook in the box for the losers.

At Corvallis on April 28 and 29, Kuehl's men played tighter ball, but nevertheless lost both games to the Aggie men, the first by a score of 6 to 4 and the second 4 to 1. Errors and loose pitching by Lewis cost the first game, and inability to hit the Corvallis pitcher lost the second.

The two Whitman games on April 30 and May 1 were wins, the heavy stickmen of the team getting into action for the first time on the trip. The scores of these games were 6—4 and 4—1. Kulzer was credited with the first win and Lewis with the second.

The CHINOOK of '21

Errors and inability to locate the ball cost the Kuehl men the game with the University of Montana on May 6, with a score of 6 to 2. Montana played almost errorless ball, while in the State College camp Cook had to be relieved by Kulzer in the fifth. On the following day the score was evened with a 17-to-15 victory against the same team. Lewis won the game in the third inning, but Swanson and Cook, relieving him to save his arm, almost lost the game.

On May 10, the State College took their third game from the University of Idaho with a score of 11 to 0. Lewis pitched. Kuehl and Kotula each got to the Idaho pitcher for home runs.

The last three games of the season were with Whitman on Rogers Field, and all went to Bohler's men. Better baseball was shown in these games than in any other part of the season, the scores being 6 to 0, 3 to 1 and 6 to 4. Morgan saved the day in the last game with a home run in the last inning that brought in two runs.

The season ended not so rosily as it started, but the State College at least acquitted herself with honor. Poor weather for practice and shortage of material were responsible in large measure for the games that were lost.

The CHINOOK of '21

CAPTAIN CLEMENT PHILLIPS

CLEMENT PHILLIPS, Captain—Clem

One of the hardest working track men that Doc ever trained. A running mate of Jit Smith's in the mile and two mile, and usually second in the latter. Last year in college—and he made it worth while.

The CHINOOK of '21

CHARLES SMITH, Captain-elect—Jit

One of the best two-milers ever turned out in either the Coast or Northwest Conferences. Always comes up smiling after a long, hard grind, asking for the proverbial chew. Fourth year on team.

ELDON JENNE

Holder of the conference record in the pole vault at 12 feet 10 1-8 inches. A consistent trainer and one of Doc's best athletes. Usually able to place in the jumps as well as in the vault.

FLOYD RATCHFORD—Ratch

Reasonably sure of a place in the mile and the 880. Worlds of endurance and a burst of speed for the last stretch. Second year on the team.

The CHINOOK of '21

CLARK CALDER

A consistent trainer, specializing in the 440. Member of the relay team that placed second in the Northwest Conference meet and third in the Coast meet.

CARL KING

Always sure to place in the dual meets with the shot and the discus. Went into the Coast meet at Seattle and placed in the hammer throw without any previous training.

OVERMAN HOWELL

The sensation of the year, copping more than his share of the hurdle races he entered. Won the high hurdles in the Coast meet and the low hurdles in the Northwest.

The CHINOOK of '21

LEVI SUTTON

Able substitute for the sprinting of Al Miller, veteran dash man. Not so fast as Miller, but always pushing the winners in any meet. Member of the relay team.

MERTON PARKER

A green man on the squad, but on the job in every race he entered. Member of the relay quartette and usually sure of a place in the 440 and 220.

EARL McCROSKEY—Grub

First year on the team, but a demon on the javelin. Won first in the Northwest meet and third in the Coast meet.

The CHINOOK of '21

1919 TRACK

THE spring of 1919 was a slow year in track in all the colleges of the Coast and Northwest conferences, probably due in a large measure to the absence of many track stars in the service. Jenne, the phenomenal pole vaulter developed by Doc Bohler, hung up the only record of the season, that of 12 feet 10 1-8 inches.

The State College track men cleaned up well in the two dual meets scheduled, those with the University of Idaho on May 10 and with Oregon Agricultural College on May 17. Both meets were easy for Bohler's men, the first going by a score of 79 to 52 and the second by a score of 74 to 57.

In the Northwest Conference meet on Rogers Field on May 24 teams from the Universities of Oregon, Montana and Idaho met with Bohler's men, the University of Idaho emerging victorious over State College by a two-point margin through a technicality. The Crimson and Gray relay team nosed out in second place in the last event, while Idaho came in last. This gave the meet to the State College by a score of 44 to 42. However, Parker dropped the baton in the last lap of the relay, and this disqualified the winning team, allowing Idaho the victory with a score of 43, against the State College's 41.

The first Coast meet since the organization of that conference was held at Seattle on May 31. Here the California teams nosed out ahead of the Northerners, but with the State College well ensconced in third place. Smith in the two-mile, Jenne in the pole vault and Howell in the high hurdles all won firsts in this meet.

INTERSCHOLASTIC TRACK MEET OF 1919

The Interscholastic Track Meet held on May 9, 1919, was the last one in the history of the College unless the Conference lifts the ban on Interscholastic Tournaments imposed last spring.

More than 150 high school athletes assembled on Rogers Field on the afternoon of Campus Day, 1919, representing 23 high schools of the Northwest. When the final race was won, North Central High School of Spokane was victor with 52 points, and Lewis and Clark second with 43 points. Maurice Saffle of the winning team was high point man with 21 1-4 points to his credit, having won the three dashes and the broad jump.

CAPTAIN EDDIE COPELAND

EDDIE COPELAND, Captain

Another member of the famous team of 1917. Speedy and an exceptionally good shot for a guard. Fourth year on the team. Named by Doc Bohler on the All-Northwest team.

The CHINOOK of '21

MILO McIVOR, Captain-elect—Pink

Unsurpassed as a dribbler. Played running guard most of the season. Lots of fight in basketball, as he has in football. Third year on team.

ROBERT MOSS—Bob

Member of the famous team of 1916 and 1917. Mate of Ivan Price at the forward position. Specialized in short throws from under the basket. Fourth year on team.

McCLELLAN ROCKEY—Chick

One of the most consistent forwards ever developed by Doc Bohler. Able to make baskets from any position or angle. Opposing coaches soon learned to keep two guards on Rockey all the time. Named on All-Coast team.

The CHINOOK of '21

MARTCIL KOTULA—Toolie

Tricky, fast and on the ball every minute when it got in his territory. Made the California trip, but student work kept him out of the game the balance of the season.

WILLIAM KING—Bill

First year on the team, with every promise of a star center in the next year or so. Alternated with Cisna at the center position.

RICHARD CISNA—Dick

Center on the freshman team of 1919 and made good in Varsity last year. Aggressive, fast, and a fair shot. First year on the team.

REVIEW OF THE SEASON

THE State College Basketball Team got away to a bad start at the beginning of the season, with the coal shortage seriously interfering with practice before the Christmas holidays, and the flu ban further delaying the schedule in January.

Before the California trip the team was able to play only four games, one with the Spokane A. A. C., two with Montana, and one with Idaho. All of these were victories for the Cougars, although in two of them Bohler's men had to come from behind in the second half to win.

The California trip was started with Chick Rockey down with an attack of influenza. He made the trip, but was unable to play clear through any one game, and even when he did play, his shooting was not up to par. The Stanford games were split, one going to the Cougars and the other to the Cardinals. California took two close games from Bohler's men, one of them going five minutes overtime to break a tie. In Oregon, all three games were taken by the Cougars, one with the University and two with the Aggies.

The real losing streak struck the team after the return to Pullman, when the University of Idaho and Oregon Argicultural College both took cracks at our percentage figures. The games with California and Washington went fifty-fifty, while Whitman's star aggregation and the small gymn at Walla Walla cost two games with the Missionaries.

At the finish, the State College came out third in the Coast Conference, and was the only team to defeat Stanford. In the Northwest Conference, Whitman far outshone the rest of the league. Here State College finished fourth.

LAMBDA CHI ALPHA
Interfraternity Winners

After several hard fought games the Lambda Chis finally came out victorious. Several of the fraternities put up a fine showing, the closest rival for the championship being Sigma Nu.

The sportsmanship throughout all the game was as clean as Doc Bohler could make it.

The Lambda Chis have held the championship for two successive years. Next will determine whether or not they hold the cup permanently.

CAPTAIN FRANK LOGAN

FRANK LOGAN, Captain—Logie

Third year on the squad, but always before outlucked for his letter. Wrestles regularly at 115 pounds, but the conference ruling abolishing that class required him to come up to 125. Able to stand considerable punishment and a clever man on the defense.

The CHINOOK of '21

FRANK GLAHE, Coach

World's champion wrestler at 115 pounds. Came here from the Spokane A. A. C. to put the Cougar grapplers into shape for the 1920 season. Will go to the Olympic games at Antwerp to represent the United States at 115 pounds.

LESLIE TROMANHAUSER, Captain-elect—Trom

Like the rest of the squad, the first year on the team. Another year of experience will list him as one of the wrestlers in the conference.

VERNON EWING

Like his older brother, Clarence, a wrestler from the word "go." Put up a stiff fight at 135 pounds, although he lost both matches he was in, on decisions.

The CHINOOK of '21

ORIN PEARSON

Despite the handicap of injuries, went through the season without being thrown once. Wrestles at 158, winning three falls and losing two decisions in the course of the season.

LORRAINE BOGGS—Shorty

Put up one of the gamest battles ever seen here when he wrestled 30 minutes in the O. A. C. meet, finally losing on a decision. Like Pearson, he was never thrown during the season.

TENNIS

THERE was but one tennis tournament in 1919, held on May 24, and designated as the Northwest Conference meet, with but only two teams competing with the State College on the local courts. Whitman College won the singles competition, taking five out of the six singles contests with Idaho and the State College, while the State College won the doubles series.

Henry Graham and Philip Griesinger made up the State college doubles team, and Harry Smith completed the singles trio. Graham and Griesinger were both awarded letters in the sport, while Smith did not receive his on account of a technicality in the requirements.

RESULTS OF THE MATCHES

Singles

Garver (W) defeated Hunter (I), 6—2, 6—3.

Webster (W) defeated Denuke (I), 6—1, 6—3.

Marcus (W) defeated Denny (I), 4—6, 6—3, 6—4.

Graham (WSC) defeated Garver (W), 6—1, 6—3.

Webster (W) defeated Griesinger (WSC), 8—6, 6—3.

Marcus (W) defeated Smith (WSC) 7—5, 6—4.

Doubles

Graham and Griesinger (WSC) defeated Hunter and Denny (I), 6—3, 6—1, 9—7.

Graham and Griesinger (WSC) defeated Garver and Webster (W), 6—4, 6—4, 6—4.

In Appreciation

THROUGH this column the editor wishes to express his appreciation for the cooperation of the entire staff who have made possible this volume. The staff wishes to express their appreciation to Lewis DeCastle, May Dwight, Virginia Cooper, Madeline Power, Mildred Christensen, Chet Oberland, Anna McCoy and Margaret Andrew, for the time and effort they spent upon the book. Through their kindness and courtesy it has been possible for the Chinook to have many new features this year.

Credit is also due Mr. Earl Baumhoffer of the McKee Printing Company for his cooperation.

Printer's Note—
The printer man! no thought of him!
'Tis but for him to do and work;
And while kind words pass too and fro
No wreath for printer to bestow,
Much less waste nice "appreciation";
Perhaps for him it's: "Execration."

HONOR TEAM

THE spring season of baseball in 1919 was marked by large and enthusiastic turnouts for the different class teams. The deciding game of the season's tournament was fought by the Junior and Freshmen teams, which resulted in the awarding of the cup to the Juniors. This was the third consecutive year for that class to win that honor, which makes them permanent possessors of the trophy.

The honor team chosen was: Gladys Beck, Josephine Vogler, Dorothea Sorenson, Agnes Sorenson, Violet Simpkins, Francis Lincoln, Alice McKean, Kate Argo and Angeline Ward.

ANGELINE WARD

All girls on the honor team are among the best women athletes at the State College. Angeline Ward, Dorothea and Agnes Sorenson, and Frances Lincoln have shown marked ability in all kinds of sports.

DESPITE insistent rainy weather during the spring of 1919, tennis proved as popular a sport as ever. Turnouts for all class teams were large, making the preliminaries, which precede all inter-class tournaments, full of pep and enthusiasm. The championship game was played by the classes of 1920 and 1922, the Juniors being victorious. Marjorie Heaton and Bertha Boehme were deserving of the honor team. Margaret Gormley was the manager of this sport.

TRACK is gradually gaining a place of importance among the sports for women. The different events of the women's track meet are baseball throw, basketball throw, shot put, broad jump, high jump, sprints, relays and hurdles, practices for which are included in the regular work. The Freshmen and Juniors carried away all the honors of the meet, Leita Brandt and Agnes Sorenson scoring high for the Juniors, and Gladys Beck and Mary Sullivan bringing in points for the Freshmen. Leita Brandt, Gladys Beck and Marjorie Duffin made up the honor team.

JUNIOR PROM.

ERNEST HENRY
Chairman

THE formal dance given by the Class of 1921 honoring the graduating class was held Saturday evening, April 10th. The gymnasium was completely transformed into a palace of pink and green, perfectly blended in the shaded light. Latticed enclosures formed the orchestra and punch booths, streamers of pink and green the ceiling, in the center of which was a large indirect light completely concealed by pink and green streamers. The balcony lights were shaded with shields bearing the Junior "J."

The Seniors, in cap and gown, gave dignity to the grand march, which was led by Lloyd Gillis and Jeannette Bolick, followed by Henry Loren and Erna Bradbury.

MILITARY BALL

THE Annual Military Ball, held Friday night, February 27th, proved to be the most successful all-college affair of the season. The college service flag, red, white and blue streamers and the Scabbard and Blade crest were features of the decorations, Sam Brown belts and spurs adding to the military atmosphere. The programs were neat cadet manuals and contained the names of the R. O. T. C. officers and the officers and the members of the Sponsor Club.

VARSIITY BALL

ELDON JENNE, Chairman

THE Varsity Ball, given under the auspices of the Gray W Club, was a great success. Features of the decorations were the Gray W blankets and crimson and gray streamers. The grand march was led by Captain Hanley, followed by Captain-elect Hamilton and members of the Gray W Club. Two dances were reserved for letter men.

MAY FETE

A REVIVAL of a pre-war custom, the May Fete, was given May 23, 1919, under the auspices of the Y. W. C. A. Edna McKinstry headed the committee of arrangements. Zella Melcher was elected Queen of the May.

The scenario for the allegorical playlet in connection with the coronation festivities was written by Walter Blair. The Spirit of Today comes to the Queen's court seeking to find her mission in life. The Spirits of Play dance about her, but their advances are not welcomed. Spirits of Work hover about her, but their interest is not enough to satisfy. Understanding comes to the Spirit of Today and after touching her with a magic wand departs. The dull gray robe falls from the visitor and the court is amazed to recognize her as Service, the keynote of the unselfish attitude demanded for a perfect peace. Service is welcomed by the Nations as a common friend essential to world humanity.

STATE COLLEGE OF WASHINGTON CHAPTER

Installed 1919

Phi Kappa Phi is a national honorary fraternity founded at the University of Maine. It is dedicated to the Unity and Democracy of Education, and open to honor students of all departments of American universities and colleges. Its prime object is to emphasize scholarship in the thought of college students, and to stimulate mental achievement by the prize of membership. In order to gain these objects, membership is restricted to fifteen per cent of the graduating class, and is distributed among all divisions of the college.

There are no restrictions as to kinds of degrees received, or courses of study taken by members, and they may be members of other fraternities. Undergraduate members are elected in April and October of each year.

There are now 22 chapters thruout the country, and include some of the largest institutions of the country.

VETERANS' VOCATIONAL CLUB

W. S. C. POST No. 2

PREAMBLE OF CONSTITUTION

We, the students of the Federal Board for Vocational Education, at the State College of Washington, hereby declare our intention to organize a club.

The purpose of this club is, To be of mutual help to one another, and to ease the way for the boys coming after us; to be especially considerate of those with major handicaps sustained while in active service of the United States; to not only assist one another, but also to stimulate among the wounded and injured comrades a feeling of fraternal brotherhood. Our courage is sturdy, our bond of friendship unbreakable. As we stood upon the field of battle, side by side, so shall we stand in years to come. As we have endured and suffered together, so shall we now enjoy the friendship of the tried and true. For these reasons we do pledge ourselves to abide by our constitution.

The Women's League is an organization of which every collegiate woman is a member. The purpose of the organization is to further the spirit of unity and mutual helpfulness, promote interest in student activities, work for campus improvements, to be a medium by which the social and moral standard of the college can be kept on a high plane, and to work for a Women's Gymnasium building on the campus.

To make this organization more effective, a council was formed consisting of a representative from every organized women's organization on the campus. This is the executive body of the League, which discusses and deliberates upon important matters, the better to present them to the individual organizations.

To help in the development of the Civil Engineering Department, and to further the interests of the students of this department, is the aim and purpose of this organization.

The reconstruction problem involves many millions of dollars in irrigation projects and highway construction in Washington alone. The demand for Washington State Civil Engineers is greater than the supply, and the Civil Engineering Society is doing much to increase the enrollment in this department at Washington State.

The All-Ag. Club numbers among its members all of the students and faculty of the College of Agriculture. It was organized in 1919 to promote a common meeting ground for all college people interested in Agriculture and anxious to promote its welfare throughout the State. The first annual agricultural fair in the fall of 1919 was promoted and successfully carried through by the All-Ag Club, and each spring it stages the annual show and mock sale. The Club also presents gold medals to members of the intercollegiate judging teams that compete at the north-western stock shows and fairs.

"The Engineers of the State College of Washington" is an organization which aims to bring about a closer relationship between the students of engineering at Washington State. The organization is active in promoting the general interests of the engineering students. Many prominent engineers have been the guests of this organization as lecturers.

The Engineers' Evergreen is an annual edition of the college paper put out by this group. It is a feature number and has been remarkably successful.

The social activities of the organization include an annual all-college dance, and a number of banquets which are keenly enjoyed by those privileged to attend. A large banquet was given in honor of Dr. Robert A. Milliken on March 27th.

Y. M. C. A.

The new home of the student Young Men's Christian Association has been "built to serve" the men in every department of their college life. Every effort has been prompted by the desire to go "with the men" during the year just passed.

Its offices are the official rooming agency of the college, where is kept an authentic list of rooms and thru which hundreds of students have found their college homes.

Under the Veterans Welfare Commission the local association has listed work and placed three hundred ex-service men at steady work for which they have received approximately $40,000 during the year, to say nothing of the numberless odd jobs dealt out daily.

Nor have the other departments of the association been neglected. The deputation team has worked by schedule in a number of nearby towns, directed to give a wholesome application of energy to great and good causes. Social, visitation, community work, all have been striving to make the life of the college student happier.

Too much praise can not be given for the whole-hearted service rendered by the cabinet and committeemen. With the promise of a larger and more efficient Seabeck as a training camp, the local association hopes to be prepared to meet all services and privileges of a bigger and better State College.

The Young Women's Christian Association is the one distinctly Christian organization into which all the college women are invited. Its purpose is to lead students to faith in God, to promote the growth of their Christian faith and character, to influence them to become active church members, and to unite with other Christians in extending the kingdom of God throughout the world. The entire work of the committees is planned for the realization of this purpose.

The Association also has charge of the housing and employment of the college women.

Four delegates went from here to the National Biennial Convention held in Cleveland, Ohio, April 13-20, 1920.

This society is named from Areopagus Hill, the meeting place in Athens where questions were argued and decided. The membership at first was only open to Freshmen, but this year has been changed to permit others to enter. Attendance at meetings is stimulated by various interesting topics, and programs vary from debate to music, humor, and even metaphysics.

OLD?

In a public speaking class Miss Hildebrand was demonstrating the correct position of the feet while speaking. Prof. Hoover said to the demonstrator: "Miss Hildebrand, you are covering too much territory."

Prof. Burton, in psychology: "Yes, I agree with the class that a college professor can be compared with an angle worm."

* * *

We have noticed that a number of our faculty members, as well as students, are advertising the fact that they are opposed to barber unions. We have often wondered:

* * *

WE HAVE OFTEN WONDERED—

Who the press agents are for Leona Doerr, Milton Enslow and Eloise Brandt.

What the Lambda Chis did while in quarantine.

What became of the Junior monocles and vests.

What the Kappa Sigs would do if the Prep Department should be discontinued.
Would they have any pledges?

Why the fussers take so much interest in track work.

What the Thetas will now use for bait during rushing.

When the Sigma Nus will build that house they told us about while we were being rushed. (We're Seniors now.)

Just what became of the Cougar.

Who is operating the boarding house where the sign Sigma Chi is on the door.

* * *

In the medical and pharmacy laboratories it is always customary when a pill is dropped on the floor to never pick it up but crush it. Frank Douglass, while partaking of a pill, dropped one on the pavement—Trimble got his fingers mashed.

"EVERGREEN" FOOTLIGHTS

DOWN WITH MUDSLINGERS.

The scene is the Evergreen office.

The time is any old day.

The cast of characters consists of:

The Editor, who has no other claim to fame.

The Assistant Editor, who is a shining example of the fact that a woman can also be an assistant editor and not wear ground-gripper shoes.

Jay Allen, of California fame, who claims that he's lost in a place where you can't tell a girl's sorority by the "fetching color" of her cigarette holder.

Beno Lindley, who is News Editor and knows it.

Ann McCoy, who writes up assemblies and so forth, but is still good-natured.

Blossom Perry, the social scribe, whose columns bloom forth regularly with the names of our "fairest co-eds."

Henry, who frankly tells father all about it every week.

Mildred Perry, who writes features.

The curtain rises, disclosing Blossom Perry seated at typewriter, Jay Allen distributing himself promiscuously around the room, and the assistant editor hard at work on a pile of copy.

The door opens and the editor enters hurriedly.

Editor: "It's no use, B. won't give me the dope on the Alpha Beta Nus. And I took her to our informal and helped her wash the dishes when she was living a well-balanced life at the "practice cottage."

The CHINOOK of '21

The Assistant Editor jabs some copy onto the spindle and looks up.

Assistant Editor: "Well, you are simple! They're the ladies auxiliary of T. N. E. I'll bet you've got the dope, all right, but you promised not to tell. By the way, you're going to have to cesure the Barks. That Stevens Hall joke got by like a hang nail."

Editor: "Censure it! I do."

Assistant Editor: "Well, if the stuff the poor, innocent Stude gets is censored it must be pretty raw in the raw state."

Jay Allen: "Which reminds me of my encounter with the D. of W. this A. M. She breakfasted with me at the Midway, and we exchanged views on the war column over our waffles. Oh, she was entertaining all right, but hereafter I'll choose my own entertainment, thanks."

Beno Lindley and Mildred Perry enter hurriedly, both talking at once.

Beno: "Well, you couldn't spoil my fun. I borrowed one and went anyway."

Mildred: "Ye-e-s? Well, we got our programs, too, so you're welcome to your borrowed dress suit."

Beno: "I've got most of it back now, but I'm going down in the Pi Phi furnace room and hunt till I find that shirt."

Mildred: "Oh, you wouldn't want it now. The last time I saw it it was on the mop."

Exit "Beno," moping his brow.

Editor: "Not enough stuff to fill the sheet. Guess I'll have to stick in a few blank columns labeled 'Withheld by faculty request.' The first one made a big hit."

Enter Ann McCoy.

Ann: "Where are the cubs? I've got some scoops here for them to get the dope on."

Editor: "If the cubs get the dope it'll be the first time. Better do it yourself. Come on, Jay, the cooks' union is going to let her get lunch for us today. She was cutting the macaroni into three-inch lengths when I left."

They exit and the office is quiet for a space.

Presently the door opens gently and Henry sneaks in. He stealthily approaches Blossom, who is still pounding the ivory keys.

Henry (whispering): "Say, Blossom, you know me. Give me a seat by the prettiest reporter on the staff at the banquet tonight."

He slips a coin into her hand and steals stealthily away again.

The curtain is lowered slowly, while Blossom places the coin along with a pocket full of similar ones collected in the same way.

HONOR SOCIETIES

Honor societies consist largely of and accomplish little more than: the honor thrust on the neophytes. The peppiest honor societies have two essential interests, one is the eligibility basis and the other is dependent on the nature of the organization.

CRIMSON CIRCLE

Crimson Circle Honor Society has more society than honor. Circle stands for ring politics. Crimson signifies that member will shed blood before divulging the secrets of the organization. Politics adopted by the Crimson Circle are legal, illegal and semi-legal. To become a member a man must show promise of strength of purpose to go through the public initiation ceremony, as well as ability to keep the pledge, "The Crimson Circle, right or wrong, but right or wrong, the Crimson Circle." After that the neophyte becomes a member and assumes his share of responsibility in railroading Crimson Circle affairs through Student Assembly. He will take a seat in chapel designated by appointment committee of Crimson Circle and will recite his little piece to the student body at a proper interval.

GAMMA TAU

Gamma Tau, like Crimson Circle, is an upperclass honorary. Reasonably good grades being required. Gamma Tau is the advocate of scholarship. Politics adopted by the women's honorary are legal or semi-legal. Being outclassed for illegal politics by Crimson Circle, Gamma Tau now stands only for clean politics. Members of the class of 1922, who had agitated clean politics so strenuously this spring, impressed Gamma Tau so favorably that it has been about decided to take the class of 1922, men, women and all, as members. This is the biggest innovation made by the group since the eligibility of Joe Williams in 1918 was discussed.

MU PHI EPSILON

Mu Phi Epsilon is the women's auxiliary of the Glee Club. The organization is national and consequently expensive. When the members forget their financial debts, they give little concerts for the benefit of the public, who rarely attend.

GASP AND DAGGER

Gasp and Stagger members are not as dangerous as they seem. The roll of members is about four, enough to hold offices. Whenever they witness a play, they glance around for prospective stage entrance celebrities. Finding one or two, they initiate them and then—another honor society has thrust another honor.

ALPHA ZETA

Alpha Zeta has two distinct interests. One is initiation ceremonies, the other banquets. Alpha Zeta, having national standing, was interested in maintaining a scholarship basis of eligibility. The standard was first made to be not lower than 12 hours of C each semester and 4 hours of D. The fixed system made only one or two men eligible and those Alpha Zetas who could reasonably be accused of exhibiting any symptoms of foresight, feared that the loyal order of animal zealots would die out so far as the campus was concerned. Now they choose the upper two-fifths of the agriculture majors, or rather they really overlook the lower three-fifths. Alpha Zetas banquet once a month. New members, who parade the campus all day in small-town comedy attire, are allowed to dress in conventional clothing, attend the banquet, and with the older members grapple with the problem of which silver to use and when. To cover embarrassment, they drink much water to the disgust of Home Ec waitresses, who hadn't planned on being wholesale water carriers. Feeling an obligation to entertain the Omicron Nu's, the Alpha Zeta's invited them to a banquet last December after it had been definitely decided to call off banquets owing to the coal shortage. The promised banquet was announced in the Evergreen and reflected much credit on the Alpha Zetas for their loyal and brotherly interest in Omicron Nu.

The CHINOOK of '21

OMICRON NU

Not optimistic enough to wait for the materializing of any Alpha Zeta banquets, the Omicron Nus have little banquets and buffet suppers of their own. Supporting the national and electing new members comprise Omicron Nu's very chiefest considerations.

THE SCRIBBLERS

The Scribblers are the most unconventional and the very latest thing in honoraries. They elect men and women who show ability along journalistic lines. Colors, red and orange, mark the Scribblers as being in a class by themselves. The Scribblers are refusing all offers of national organizations who wish to thrust a charter on the Scribbs. Feeling that the nationals now existing fall down on many requirements upheld by the Scribblers, the local organization intends to maintain the high policy with which they started out.

Pins are very vital to honoraries. Nothing impresses a student's home town friends or relations more than a vest or blouse lined with pins. Dad, who pays the bills, and mother, who has never been exposed to honoraries, are a little unreasonable and dense on the subject, but after all, what is more honorary than an honorary society, even if the pin wearer is the only one to recognize it.

The CHINOOK of '21

CAMPUS

INITIATION

The CHINOOK of '21

ALPHA TAU OMEGA

Located in the morgue on Fraternity square. As a bunch they are harmless. They have an athlete, a couple of pool players and a politician. The rest are fussers and underclassmen. The seniors are about as well posted on the affairs of the gang as the cook. They have a branch chapter in the Whitehead Amusement Hall in Spokane. The society column of the Evergreen is their advertising medium.

Hobby—Student work and Sigma Nus.

Motto—Why serve fresh fruit for dinner when it will ferment and serve us better.

BETA THETA PI

This is the same old Gamma Delt bunch who recently decided to change their name and live down their former reputation. It is said that since the change they smoke in the kitchen and pass out cubebs accompanied with live savers at meal time. Pledge pins are purchased by the gross and scattered at will around over the campus. They have a weakness for introducing their brothers as BETAS and take great delight in displaying their breast plate.

Hobby—Telling others about Beta.

Motto—A diamond in the rough is worth two in Ferry Hall.

GAMMA PHI

That wild gang across the street from the Alpha Delts. During rushing season Brother Schroll breezes in with a prospect who is looking for a place to grab off an extra meal. The victim meets Brother De-Young, who extends a hearty welcome, accompanied with a dish rag handshake. Brother Holmes then blows in and renders a few rare selections, at which the victim is stunned. In this condition he is rushed up to the attic and before coming to is made liable to the rules of the fraternity by supporting a Gamma Phi trade mark. The local chapter has already formed an affiliation with the National All-Ag. Club and bid fair on their way to social and active success on the campus.

Hobby—Ag. students.

Motto—Nothing.

PSI NU SIGMA

This organization grew out of the amalgamation of all stray I. W. W.'s, Bolsheviks, and campus nuisances that had not been run down by the sheriff. They are in close hiding at present, but are expected to burst forth next fall. It will take some time for them to gather the desired information in order that they can scatter their propaganda by the next school session. Watch for their shingle.

Hobby—Wrecking the Sphinx Club.

Motto—Stand not in our way.

The CHINOOK of '21

SIGMA CHI

The Sigma Chi was founded by a few S. P. E.'s who, due to the overflow, decided to move across the street. Unable to make their way under the name of Delta Sigma, they finally landed Sigma Chi after petitioning seven other nationals. They cause keen competition with the Betas in advertising their national. Class officers are a specialty. They have Edward Stevens and fifty-five others. Their house is crowded, but there is always room for one more.

Hobby—Sigma Chi.

Motto—If you can't look like a national, act like one.

KAPPA SIGMA

This fraternity is a branch of the old Kuppenheimer line. They don't associate with the common herd, so if your old man doesn't own a bank you are counted out. Rushing season usually starts out with a bang. The brothers doll up in their Hart Schaffner and Marx, borrow all the cars possible, and leave the Frosh behind to stave off the bill collector. Fine eats accompany rushing season, but after that the stocks slump. Both athletes have left school so they have nothing special to offer.

Hobby—Parting their hair in the middle.

Motto—Most anything will get by if it is dressed up.

EPSILON NU GAMMA

This house was organized to furnish cheaper board to engineers who were unable to make a fraternity. However, under the dictatorship of Kennedy they are establishing themselves in fine shape. They don't take in anything, as some others do; you have to be an engineer. Their house is the one that is so well lighted at night. We would suggest a few window curtains.

Hobby—Sunday picnics.

Motto—Bear up, boys, there is hope.

SIGMA NU

The P. A. A. C., meaning Pullman Amateur Athletic Club. "Dick" Hanley is the big argument, the big noise, and the mainstay of the club. The college has come to recognize the desirability of such an organization for they have considerably reduced crabbing at athletic contests. They are still threatening the campus with a new house and have strengthened the argument by tearing out their tennis court.

Hobby—Football, basketball, track, baseball, tennis, indoor baseball, volley ball, handball, hockey and Mexican athletics.

Motto—You can't tell a man's athletic ability by his looks.

The CHINOOK of '21

SIGMA ALPHA EPSILON

This outfit boards at the same place as Fat Herried and the baseball coach and seem to place their whole existence on that fact. They are going to build a new house, some time, which is to be furnished by sundry pieces of furniture neophytes can pick up at initiation time. They argue that quality is not the only thing to look for, but the strength of a fraternity is based on numbers. This is a good point to uphold as they pledged more men than the Lambda Club.

Hobby—Quoting lower prices on board than any other competitor.

Motto—If there are no chickens to steal, grab any old thing, never come home empty-handed.

PHI DELTA THETA

The Phi Delt's main office is half way between the pool hall and the Zeta Phi house. Some of the boys who the older fellows are ashamed to have around the house, live in the annex across the street from the Western Union office. By operating a creamery and having a brother on a truck farm, another in the slaughter house, they are able to compete with the S. A. E.'s on quoting cheap board.

Hobby—Down-town dances.

Motto—If you can't pledge one fellow, pledge another.

SIGMA PHI EPSILON

This aggregation occupies valuable space on Fraternity Square that just as well be given over to a better purpose. Their annual festivity, the "All-Spe Mix," is the big event of the social year. At this function the brothers from all three floors congregate in the basement and swap notes. Speeches are made by the oldtimers and athletes, after which the whole bunch goes to Ferry Hall with a sack full of pledge pins and returns with enough victims to fill the attic.

Hobby—Picnics and athletics.

Motto—If he is all right from his neck down, his head will take care of itself.

LAMBDA CHI ALPHA

Situated on the N. P. tracks. With Lewis Callow, the fraternity idol, as pilot, and Dave Hartz as the assistant, this mob is kept on the road to glory. The fraternity publication, the Evergreen, is an excellent advertising medium for the gang and aids in rushing. They have a glee club, too, which recently made a tour of the state, with Sid Allison as manager, general supervisor and personnel. Military aspirants will receive a hearty welcome.

Hobby—Crap shooting, poker and Mexican athletics.

Motto—He that tooteth his own horn—Yea, and it shall be tooted.

The CHINOOK of '21

THETA NU EPSILON

For some reason the members of this organization seem to be ashamed of the fact and keep it a dark secret. To belong you have to be a member of some other fraternity and they claim the CREAM OF FRATERNITY MEN. They told us not to mention any names or they would ruin our reputation.

Hobby—Politics since prohibition.

The CHINOOK of '21

Sun Fish

Pretty soft for the Thetas!

"Do You take this Shimmie hound for your lawful wife?"

The CHINOOK of '21

K. A. T.

The Thetas may be distinguished from the rest of the Greek world by their characteristic coiffeur and their hearty endorsement of the S. A. Es. The requirements for membership in this group are extremely rigid. Before you submit your application be sure your family tree is hale and hearty. They prefer long lines of butchers or cobblers.

What girl wouldn't hitch her wagon to a star if she affiliated with a Theta kite—providing her wagon was a Ford.

A. C. O.

We hate to admit that the Alpha Chis have lyres in their midst, but then the truth will out. But really, you know, with Dean White's apartments across the street last year, the girls led a simple life until the Y. M. came to spread its Christian influence over them. The contrast was awful.

The girls crave diversity of pastime, the favorite one being rink skating, but once more the dean interfered. They inaugurated the latest wrinkles in dancing.

Z. P.

Very soon the Zeta Phis will cease to lend local color to the campus. The group in choosing from the various pins of the fraternity world decided that Kappa insignia would be the key to the situation. The Zetas extend a welcoming hand to all unsophisticated Frosh.

The fraternity magazine is the "Cosmopolitan," published monthly, and the frat song is "Come Young Folks, Come Old Folks, Come Everybody, Come!"

K. B.

Kappa Beta is the baby member of the Greek family. It can't be said that the K. Bs. are strong in the east, but they seem to be getting away big in the Palouse country. It is often wondered why they plucked a quill for the fraternity insignia. Wouldn't a Waterman Ideal have been more modern? Perhaps the quill denotes journalistic tendencies, who knows?

P. B. P.

The Pi Phis have enjoyed a successful winter, both socially and scholastically. Cupid has employed the Pi Phi arrow to good advantage this year. In fact, it is rumored that the Sigma Nus smashed a bad egg on the Pi Phi door at the same time the A. T. Is. and Phi Deltas scored a "Howell-ing" hit at marbles.

The Pi Phis pledged so many Frosh this year that it became necessary for them to annex a new chapter room. The cheapest place seemed to be one of the long tables in the end of the library. It works fine.

A. D. P.

The Alpha Deltas are the official tea hounds of the campus. How much more admirable it would be if they would put college before tea. It is rumored that the A. A. T. have leased the old barracks for next year. It is so hard for the old girls to give up the group life for the sake of the Frosh. And speaking of Frosh, the A. A. are doing a mighty big work.

D. Z.

How far that Roman lamp throws its beams so shines a Delta Zeta on this naughty campus. Exclusiveness is a strong A. Z. national policy, and when the Delta Pi Phis colonized and segregated themselves in the gray house which overlooks the Standard Oil Works.

The fraternity song is "Throw Out the Life Line."

D. D. D.

The Tri Deltas should be known as the Order of the Eternal Triangle, but the big difficulty this year is the wall of frat pins that has been built up by aspiring members of the opposite sex. From present indications the Tri Delt crescent will be a honeymoon soon.

And, by the way, they have dealt an awful blow at "Hi living" by inaugurating a fraternity wardrobe. One's allowance goes farther, y'know.

Entering the World Electrical

THE graduate of today enters a world electrical.

Gathered from the distant waterfalls or generated by the steam turbine, electric power is transmitted to the busiest city or the smallest country place.

Through the co-ordination of inventive genius with engineering and manufacturing resources, the General Electric Company has fostered and developed to a high state of perfection these and numerous other applications.

And so electricity, scarcely older than the graduate of today, appears in a practical, well developed service on every hand.

Recognize its power, study its applications to your life's work, and utilize it to the utmost for the benefit of all mankind.

Spring and Summer Fashions and Fabrics Now Ready

OUR tailored clothes are the result of the careful study of the wants of the better class of young men. They possess distinction of style and refinement of character not usually found in young men's clothes. Their superior features appeal to aggressive young men who appreciate the worth of correct dress. This unusual service costs you no more than you will have to pay for ordinary ready made. The truth is our clothes cost you far less in the long run. We're as glad to have you look as to have you buy--almost.

Bring Your Kodak Films Here for Results

THE newer and better methods of developing and finishing are practiced here. No secrets about our work. Tested chemicals, modern apparatus and expert operatives working where fresh air and plenty of daylight are in abundance, we believe, are responsible for the results attained. Every negative is given most careful attention and each print is inspected in daylight.
